MARKET SNAPSHOT

ASSET	PRICE	WK CHG	NOTE
Bitcoin (BTC)	$63,800	-4.2%	Near 200-day MA; extreme fear (F&G;: 23)
Ethereum (ETH)	$1,760	-3.8%	ETH/BTC 0.027; Glamsterdam devnet live
S&P; 500	~5,575	+0.93%	Narrow rally; AI/energy leading; breadth weak
Nasdaq	~18,100	+2.43%	Outperforming; concentrated in AI names
DXY (Dollar)	~100.85	+1.1%	1-year high post-hawkish FOMC signal
Gold (spot)	$4,150/oz	-2.8%	3rd consec. weekly decline; GS cut target to $4,900
WTI Crude	~$77/bbl	-1.4%	Down from war peak; Iran talks collapsed Friday
10-yr Treasury	~4.45%	+12bps	Jumped on Warsh dot-plot hawkish shift

MACRO THEMES

1. Fed Turns Hawkish Under Warsh

Rates held at 3.5%-3.75% at June 16-17 FOMC (Warsh's debut). 9 of 18 officials now project a 2026 rate hike. Markets pricing ~50% probability of 25bp hike in September. Rate cut thesis is dead for now.

2. Dollar at 1-Year Highs

DXY hit ~101 — strongest since May 2025. Driven by rate-hike repricing and safe-haven demand as Iran talks stalled. Dollar strength is a direct headwind for commodities and risk assets.

3. Gold Correcting, Bull Case Intact

3rd consecutive weekly decline. ~25% below Jan 2026 ATH of $5,589. Goldman cut year-end target to $4,900. Structural thesis (CB buying, $37T US debt, dollar debasement) unchanged — short-term pressure from higher real yields is the driver.

4. Oil: Iran Talks Are the Swing Factor

WTI ~$77. Down from $120+ war peak. Friday's Geneva talks collapsed. Oil ticking higher this morning. Strait of Hormuz still below pre-war traffic. Energy-driven inflation (CPI 4.2% YoY May) keeps rate cuts suppressed.

CRYPTO THEMES

1. BTC: ETF Outflows + Leverage Flush

May ETF outflows: $2.3B (largest of 2026). June 5 saw $1.5B long liquidations as BTC broke $62K. Now grinding back near 200-day MA at ~$63,800. RSI neutral (49.74). MACD negative. Key line: $62K support.

2. On-Chain: Cautious But Not Broken

Long-term holders began distributing in late May. Funding rates normalized post-flush (crowded longs removed). MVRV in neutral zone for BTC. Not screaming buy — not freefall either.

3. ETH: Fundamentals vs. Price Divergence

ETH/BTC at 0.027 (lowest since early 2023). Q1 users +53.5% QoQ. Glamsterdam (largest upgrade since Merge) in final devnet. BitMine holds 5.62M ETH (4.66% of supply). 500K ETH left exchanges last week. MVRV below 0.8 (accumulation zone). None of this is priced in yet.

4. Crypto is Macro-Correlated

Thursday PCE drives near-term direction. Hot print (core PCE >3.4%) = dollar strength = $62K BTC re-test. Soft print = potential relief rally for risk assets including crypto.

RISKS & OUTLOOK

BEARS WATCH	BULLS WATCH
May PCE hot print Thursday — if 4.1%+ YoY materializes, expect dollar strength, rate hike odds spike, $62K BTC re-test, gold below $4,000. Iran talks collapse — Strait of Hormuz re-closure drives oil back toward $90, refueling sticky inflation. Equity breadth deteriorates — if AI/energy concentration reverses, the narrow market leaders could drag the index lower fast.	PCE soft print Thursday — at or below 3.4% core sends rate hike odds lower, DXY weakens, risk assets get relief. Hormuz reopens — meaningful reopening accelerates, oil drops below $72, inflation expectations fall, giving the Fed room. ETH Glamsterdam catalyst — positive testnet news + BTC stabilization narrows ETH/BTC ratio; any sustained ETF inflows would be powerful.
